Our protagonist, Sergei Bonarchuk, is presented not through the lens of a biography in the tradition of historically great biopics, but as a universal, primordial cinematic force. Bondarchuk is portrayed as a kind of reincarnation of Orson Welles, a 'portoartist'. Simultaneously, a great and terrible actor and director, and a genuine force of nature who has been born with the sole purpose of leaving his mark on the world of cinema.

SYNOPSIS

Some sporting victories are about more than just claiming a title. Some of them go down in history. This film follows the most dramatic and legendary showdown in the history of chess – the match between Anatoly Karpov, then world champion, and Viktor Korchnoi, a recent emigrant from the USSR. In this battle between two outstanding chess players, a duel of personalities under immense psychological pressure, the stakes are incomprehensibly high.

SYNOPSIS

The film tells the story of the Podolsk cadets' heroic stand outside Moscow in October 1941. Cadets from the Podolsk infantry and artillery schools were sent to the Ilyinsky line of defense, fighting alongside units from the Soviet 43rd Army to hold back the German advance until reinforcements arrived. Hopelessly outnumbered, young men in their teens laid down their lives in a battle lasting almost two weeks to obstruct the far superior German forces advancing towards Moscow. This film is not only about war. It is also about love, true camaraderie, and the path from boyhood to manhood. Around 3,500 cadets and their commanding officers were sent to hold up the last line of defense outside Moscow. Most of them remained there for eternity.

SYNOPSIS

Goryanki is a documentary film showing the stories of several women from the North Caucasus. The collapse of the Soviet Union, during which Caucasian women were actively withdrawn from the context of traditional values, raised a lot of questions within society as it had to rebuild and dramatically redevelop its system of values. The film raises questions of feminism, the clash of national traditions and religion through the prism of several stories of women from the Caucasian mountains – “goryanok” – who, despite everything, found the strength and courage to become successful and outstanding ones.

Nastya is a 29-year-old designer-architect who recently faced a personal “end of the world.” She was fired from her job because of a sexist customer, her mother quit helping her, and her husband cheated on her with her best friend. There is only one thing to say here: “Nastya, cheer up!” Five sub-personalities inside Nastya’s head are trying to fulfill the task: an imperious ruler, a sensual beauty, a modest housewife, an impulsive little princess, and an ambitious feminist.

A sun-kissed musical melodrama about first friendships and love in a pioneer camp in 1978. An ambitious musician Andrei finds himself at a camp trying to sweet-talk his way into an international song contest. At first, he feels miserable among the children.
